

What's with the time warp?

Contributed by Administrator
Friday, 15 December 2006
Last Updated Thursday, 05 July 2007

You may be wondering why the website seems to have gone back in time about a month? Where did those photos of the North Sydney Boys fundraising Tournament and Jack and Mitch hanging out with the Xbox 360 girls?

Well for the past year I have been hosting Xtopia's website with Bliksem hosting. They had been pretty good until last weekend when the site went down. It turns out they just switched off the servers and closed down! This meant that all our recent data for the website was lost.

We have now moved to a new webhost and restored a backup of the site. Our most recent backup was a month old hence why the most recent posts and photos are missing.

Over the next few days I will attempt to repost most of the missing material. Our apologies to the people who have setup accounts on the site in the last couple of days, as you will need to create a new account. If you sent me an email in the last 2 days, I may

Lesson learned:

Backup Daily

Don't ever use Bliksem Hosting.